Selecting the Right Dental Plan

Choosing between a PPO and an HMO dental plan isn't about which one is "better." Both plans provide comprehensive coverage — including cleanings, X-rays, crowns, and dentures. The main differences come down to flexibility and cost.

PPO Plans offer greater flexibility and are ideal for members who want to keep their current dentist. You may visit any dentist, and no referrals are required for specialists. Using a network dentist provides the greatest savings.

Example: Crown (Major Service – 50% coverage)
In-network dentists accept reduced fees (approximately $700), resulting in an estimated out-of-pocket cost of $350. Out-of-network dentists may charge $1,200, with insurance paying 50% of the average local rate, leaving an estimated out-of-pocket cost of $825.

Choose a PPO if your dentist participates in the Ameritas PPO network, you do not want to change dentists, or HMO providers are unavailable in your area.

HMO Plans are best for members comfortable using a network dentist to reduce costs. You must select an approved dentist, referrals are required for specialists, and services have fixed copays. Dentists may not charge more than listed copays.

Choose an HMO if your dentist accepts the Cigna HMO, you are willing to switch dentists, and you prefer predictable costs

HMO not available in AK, ME, MT, NH, NM, ND, SD, PR, VT, VI, WY

Important Notes - Plan exclusions and limitations vary by carrier and plan type, annual maximums, and frequency limits. For example, Ameritas PPO plans require a crown to be 10 years old for replacement, while Cigna HMO plans require five years.

Dental insurance covers future treatment only. Services already in progress or conditions existing before coverage begins are generally not covered. Examples shown in booklet are not exhaustive. Procedures have been modified into "plain English" and multiple procedures grouped under a single type. Coverage is determined by the ADA Procedure Code your dentist submits to the carrier.

Comprehensive coverage. Low copay for all covered procedures. Nationwide network of dentists to choose from. What more could you ask for?

There is no calendar year maximum dollar benefit. There are no surprises as the copay for every covered procedure is listed upfront. Your dentist may never charge you more than the listed for any of the covered services. Also, many Cigna providers extend discounts on non-covered procedures, such as teeth whitening.

This Cigna plan uses the expanded Cigna Dental Care Access Plus network, which has thousands of dentists to choose from nationwide. All Cigna network dentists and specialists are highly qualified and have been pre-screened and thoroughly evaluated prior to their acceptance.
